

The Volcano

It was a hot day, in England. Zoe and Ralph were preparing for their new adventure. Joe is checking the only parachute, ready to jump at dangerous heights. During takeoff Zoe became ill. Ralph and Joe had to take turns to fly the helicopter as it took 6 hours.

As they got closer to the dull and dreary volcano. Joe put his parachute on and jumps into the long bushy trees below. Taking out his large axe, he starts hacking so the helicopter can land.

The helicopter comes in slowly, and carefully to a stop. Everyone gets out and begins the long hike up to the mouth of the volcano. They tie off the ropes around a rock, and descend down inside the volcano. Ralph puts a cloth around his face as he doesn't like the smell.

All of a sudden smoke starts to seep through the cracks, and the floor becomes hot. Zoe asked what the rumbling was, Joe said quick climb, it's going to blow. Getting to the top they run for the helicopter. Only just making it, starting the engine flying off as it explodes hot red lava everywhere.

Mason