

Fairtrade Argument

We should have more Fairtrade products because it helps farmers from Africa and other poor countries all over the world that need to make a living. If they don't get the money they need then they won't be able to survive, but if we give them a Fairtrade then we will still get a good trade. It's good as well because it improves Fairtrade farmers' social lives because they have more money so they have more time off.
